PUBLIC PARTICIPATION WORKSHOP

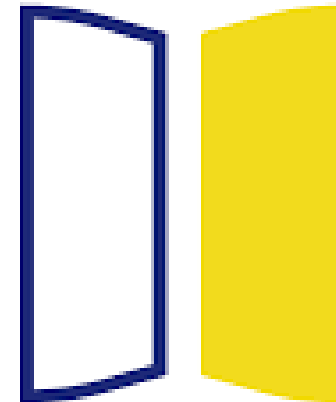

March 2026

CHILDREN

March 2026

The launch of the Child Gauge report is a good example of public participation in action. It shared important information about children's issues, allowed civil society, communities, and experts to ask questions and give feedback, and helped raise awareness about challenges affecting children. This makes participation more inclusive, meaningful, and useful for guiding policies and decisions.

Public Education Workshop

YOUTH/LEGISLATURES

28 March 2026

The first sitting of the Western Cape Youth Parliament (WCYP) Youth delegates from Representative Councils of Learners (RCLs) and Junior Councils across all districts participated through multiple ways, attending either in person or virtually.

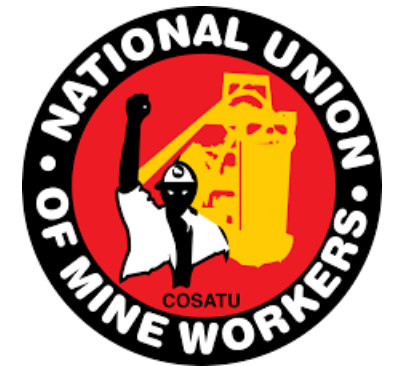

They had access to decision-making by commenting on government services and raising challenges in their communities. Their discussions and recommendations show meaningful engagement, and their inputs will be referred to committees, allowing feedback into policy that can influence government decisions.
